The Golden Century : music from the Hispanic courts from Madrid to Innsbruck and South America.

El Siglo de Oro depicts the music from the Hispanic courts in the 16th and 17th century, who had numerous strongholds in Spain but also in Belgium, Holland or in the “New World”. ## ensemble Les Surprises – direction artistique, Louis-Noël Bestion de Camboulas

‘Tact, a relaxed elegance, intensely expressive but without insistence, radiating with rhythmic vitality: we eagerly await the next concert of Les Surprises.’

– Alain Cochard, ConcertClassic

Founded in 2010 by Juliette Guignard and Louis-Noël Bestion de Camboulas, the ensemble Les Surprises seeks to convey its passion for the music of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries through varied and original programs. Borrowing its name from the opéra-ballet by Jean-Philippe Rameau Les Surprises de l'Amour, the ensemble has placed its destiny under the lucky star of this composer, with the aim of exploring operatic music in all its shapes and forms ! The work of the ensemble is anchored in a process of musicological and historical research ; Louis-Noël Bestion de Camboulas wishes to highlight scores that have never been released since the 18th century, thanks to music libraries such as the Bibliothèque Nationale de France (BNF) or the Bibliothèque de l'Opéra de Paris.

Les Surprises is an ensemble of variable size, which can transform from a chamber group to orchestral dimensions. Its members were all trained in top European conservatories.

In 2014 Les Surprises received the « Révélation musicale » (new discovery) prize awarded by the French critics' circle for the performing arts (« Syndicat professionnel de la critique de théâtre ») musique et danse.

The ensemble Les Surprises have released two records under the label Ambronay Éditions, in 2013 Rebel de père en fils, and in 2016 Les Éléments, and both were warmly praised in the national and international press (Diamant d'Opéra-Magazine, 5 de Diapason...)

Les Surprises has also begun a partnership in 2017 with the label Ambronay Éditions, to release one record a year within 2019.

Since its foundation, the ensemble has played in different concert halls and festivals through Europe, including the Versailles Chapelle Royale, the Opéra de Massy, Radio France and Ambronay festivals, Sanssouci Festival (Potsdam, Germany), the Bozar season (Brussels), Monteverdi Festival (Cremona, Italy), Pavia (Italy), Monaco, and the Sacred Music Festival of Palestine in Ramallah and Jerusalem.

Since 2016, Les Surprises has been « ensemble en résidence » in the Festival Baroque de Pontoise. It will pursue to 2018.

The Caisse des Dépôts is the main sponsor of the ensemble Les Surprises, which is also supported by the Ministère de la Culture et de la Communication – Direction Régionale des Affaires Culturelles d'Aquitaine, the City of Bordeaux, the Conseil Général d'Aquitaine, the Conseil départemental de la Gironde and ponctually by the ADAMI, SPEDIDAM, the Institut Français and the CMBV (Centre de Musique Baroque de Versailles). The ensemble is a member of the FEVIS and PROFEDIM.

Eugénie Lefebvre, Soprano

After entering the Centre de Musique Baroque de Versailles in 2007, Eugénie Lefebvre did advanced study at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama in London. She also worked with Howard Crook, Isabelle Poulénard and Stéphane Fuget. She won the Frouville international Baroque singing competition in 2013.
